

Statement of Doe 33

For some time now I have watched as the Catholic Church (my church) has continued to put more effort and focus into protecting its own interests instead of opening their hearts and minds and doing right by the victims that have been abused by priests.

Something has to change, more of us need to come forward to create change to their procedures, practices, and policies. Maybe then, they will make changes at the top of this misguided leadership.